About Clinician: Richard Watson is one of the industry's most well-regarded horse professionals. He is the 2015 Recipient of the Jane Marshall Dillon Award, a prestigious achievement award of the United States Hunter Jumper Association, which "honors teachers who have been instrumental in building future horsemen by instructing their students in proper horsemanship, training and riding while instilling in them empathy for the horse and a strong work ethic". For the past 60 years, Richard has ridden and trained cutting horses, polo ponies, eventers, and now Grand Prix Jumpers. Richard lives in Alachua, Florida and travels all over the country giving clinics and lessons from walk/trot to grand prix jumping. Richard specializes in helping riders at all levels develop greater feel and believes this is at the heart of promoting good horsemanship, whatever the discipline. Among Richard's achievements is the creation of a horse bit that promises control with a lighter touch. Now owned by the Mikmar Bit Company, it can be found today in many tack shops and catalogues listed as the "Watson Snaffle".*
