The Athletic Equestrian League is an organization of equestrian athletes who compete in practical horsemanship. AEL emphasizes the development of correct fundamental horsemanship skills, which in turn allows for progressive improvement in technique and performance.

Carlisle Academy AEL Team competes in interscholastic hunter seat equitation (flat and jump classes) competitions throughout New England, on borrowed horses at the host farm. Individuals are supported by Carlisle coaches in scheduled team practices leading up to the competition, and then travel as a team with their coaches to compete within their specified division. All competitors are scored as individuals versus as a team.
